Reports Given At English Club On Modern Novels

The English Club met at Dr. Connor's in Sweet Briar House Thursday night at nine o'clock.

Several book reports were given on short stories and novels. They included the following:

Edith Warton's "The Children, given by Adelaide Henderson.
Warwick Deeping's "Old Pybus, given by Alice Scott.

Donna Byrne's "Daisy Day, given by Louise Dalley.

POLITICAL PLATFORMS TO BE PRESENTED

Convocation this week will be devoted to a discussion and presentation of the platforms of the political parties active in America today.

Adelaide Henderson will present the Democratic platform, Katherine Smith the Republican platform, and Meredith Ferguson the Socialist platform.

In such discussions the aim is to give an impartial point of view and to furnish the students with information which might only be obtained through a great deal of research in the annals of party history.

Everyone is especially urged to seize this opportunity of hearing the party platforms presented so that the voting, on campus, November 5th, will be one of intelligence and careful thought.

R.M.W.G. To Entertain Faculty Of Classical Dept.

The Classical Faculty of Randolph-Macon Woman's College is entertaining the Classical Faculty of Sweet Briar and President Glass at dinner at Randolph-Macon on October 24th.

Last year, Miss Dutton entertained the Randolph-Macon faculty in a similar way in compliment to Miss Robinson, who had come recently to Sweet Briar College.

Sweet Briar Will Be Represented At Play Day

Miss Rogers and five girls are going down to the Woman's University of North Carolina, at Greensboro, to attend their informal College Play Day.

They are going to go and come in a car, leaving Saturday morning, October 27th, and returning to Sweet Briar on Sunday.

There will be several other colleges represented, and a most delightful week-end is anticipated.

The girls going with Miss Rogers are Agnes Sproul, Jean Cole, Pernette Whitaker, Mary Huntington, and Natalie Roberts.

Alumna's Father Supplies Paper For The NEWS

Mr. Ed D. Conkling, who is the father of Louise Conkling '28, has shown a great deal of interest in the News both this year and last.

He furnished a supply of paper last spring, and is now shipping another quantity which will last until Christmas. In the meantime he is trying to secure additional stock for the remainder of the year, so which there will be attached but a nominal sum.

The new paper will be a little heavier than what we are now using, but that will make it no less satisfactory.

The first visit was to the home of Jefferson at Monticello. They were shown through the house and grounds by two colored guides.

Among the many interesting things besides the fine old furniture, there were shown book-prints on the floor where the English had ridden into the house during the Revolution.

The slave quarters are still standing. The slave quarters are still standing. The slave quarters are still standing.

Monticello, until a year and a half ago was privately owned. It now has been purchased by the Virginia Historical Society.

After lunching at the Monticello Hotel, the party went to Ashlawn, the home of James Monroe. Here they saw the house and grounds, although they were unable to go through the house itself.

Nichols Tavern was next visited. This has been opened to the public only recently but is already famous for its old relics and the prominent men in history who have stopped there.

A complete tour of the University was made in the afternoon. On the lawn rooms were visited in (Continued on fourth page.)

CULTIVATING A FRIENDLY SPIRIT.

Sweet Briar is a place where the lack of either friendliness or friendliness would be practically unthinkable. But does it ever occur to us where such a spirit came from and how it happened to have been here so long, uninterrupted? It came from the hearts of individuals who were naturally friendly and who consequently inspired friendliness in others when they radiated it themselves. It was cultivated, then, by people who looked for friendliness and found it; because people generally find what they look for. Thus was it begun, and just so do we keep the custom.

And then, there are those who want to find friends and don't know exactly how to go about it. To those, we would say: Be friendly, and you will not only find friendship, but you will help Sweet Briar use her heritage of friendliness.

And let not such a spirit be confined to those with whom we are most intimate. The faculty, for instance, are always ready to help us when we ask for advice, and most of us have found, individually, that the faculty is far more than academically interested in all of us. We are all here together, and for a very short time at that. Let's make the most of it; let's be friends by cultivating a friendly spirit within us.

FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

Ever since the world became a dwelling place of organized thinkers, these people have been striving for the thing known as "Freedom of Speech." Men have always believed that with no legal or ecclesiastical ban placed upon the free expression of their thoughts, this world would be more livable, more broad-minded, and more advanced in civilization.

Freedom of speech is doubtless an excellent thing when it brings new thoughts to people through enlightened thinkers sharing their mental discoveries and ideas with their neighbors, but there is an outstanding evil in the type of free speech that we, as Americans have today.

With no check put upon the expression of thoughts, heedless people, or fanatics may cause a great amount of trouble with their unguarded remarks. Fanatics may be controlled by strenuous pressure exerted by public opinion, but each individual must control his own unguarded or careless remarks which may harm other people.

One of the best examples of the danger of free speech, in our life at Sweet Briar is the frequent occurrence of derogatory criticism. The number of times that this destructively type of freedom of speech occurs, should make us all think more often before we abuse the privilege which we have as citizens of a free country.

More Freshmen stories—No hum—Well, it seems that there was a certain Freshman who made chairs from the collection plate Sunday—rather peculiar, but it's been done before by an illustrious Junior with a keen eye for business.

We liked Shag Shepherd's retelling of Freshman who made chairs from the collection plate Sunday—rather peculiar, but it's been done before by an illustrious Junior with a keen eye for business.

For every birthday party we have attended around here we have planned down $1.50, or whatever it is. Well, there was a Freshman who had the distinction of being a birthday gift to May and Mary at their party.

"Reasonable quiet shall be observed always in and around... which doesn't necessarily request the author of negro spirituals in the early afternoon, oh gals?"

It's about time for some alumnae to come rolling along, we think. Betty Prescott Balch actually crashed thru with a diary of her European honeymoon the other day.

THE OPEN LETTER.

This free press column has been started in The News for any of our readers who wish to express their opinions on any matters of current interest.

All contributions for this column must be signed with the full name of the author. Initials or numerals will be used if the writer so desires.

In the past week an unusual amount of concentration seems to have been placed on noise and annoying disturbances at various places on campus including the Refectory, Library, and under Fletcher class-room windows. The latter particularly has brought down severe criticism on the heads of two culprits.

In the Library, several, having suffered reprimands, have left on tip-toes. The complaints are not groundless—cross-table conversations about the latest gossip (especially about it is (laughing)) are not very conducive toward effort on one's Psych paper, etc. However, it seems that there is always a certain amount of necessary communication on the question of arranging for books, assignments, and where to find references. It would seem that there cannot help being a bit of constant movement, shuffling of papers and walking about. To those who are seriously bent on accomplishing a place of work this slight disturbance, if it is business-like, is not apt to be distracting.

I am not advocating a "Sh" system of maintaining absolute silence, but before we have to have such a monotony, it might be suggested that those bent on finding sources of amusement search other localities.

When The Fit Survive. New Relics Are

Mendel's law of the survival of the fittest is clearly and conclusively proven in the post office rush. Imagine a mob scene at the height of its violence and you will have some idea of the short girls' difficulty in keeping up with her correspondence. Because of her handicap her roommate cannot even pass her "hooked" letter over the heads of someone else, but she must wait patiently until the flood-tide of humanity sweeps ruthlessly onward leaving her stranded by her roommate's side.

Box doors are slammed, letters are torn, papers are scattered, and then—comparative quiet reigns—only occasionally a girl walks quietly in and gazes mournfully into her box. But the results of those few minutes—Atilla and his Hunn never mind such destruction as the girls of S. T. C. leave after the chapel bell rings—Returns, October 1.

Given to Lee Museum.

Several new relics have been added recently to the large collection in the chapel. Through the efforts of Mr. W. C. Ross, a local citizen, a printed copy of the order of procession of General Robert E. Lee's funeral has been preserved and placed in the chapel for the use of the Washington and Lee students and the V. M. I. Cadets took an important part in the funeral, the latter being the guard of honor.

Another relic was contributed by Mrs. Lucy Campbell Dabney, the sister of General Campbell. It is a program of the commencement exercises, at Washington College on June 18, 1868. It was evidently the one held by General Lee at this ceremony, for it contains several annotations and remarks written on it in his handwriting. — Ring-Tum-Phi.

Tigers. Compliment Virginia Cavaliers.

Paying a compliment to the University of Virginia's football team, Coach William Behring of Princeton staged practice behind closed doors a day earlier than is customary.

In the past, except before the game with Yale, the squad has had secret drills on the Friday before a tussle, but this week at Palmer Stadium both Thursday and Friday were devoted to private workouts. — Ring-Tum-Phi.

Holy Cross Advocates Extra-curricular Activities.

Interesting it is to note the emphasis placed upon extra-curricular activities at Holy Cross College. All applicants for admission to said institution are asked the question: "Do you pledge yourself to give your time and ability to the extra-curricular activities of the College?" Should the applicant answer negatively, his application is questioned and admission into the college is denied him until a logical reason is offered.

Dartmouth Faculty Number High in "Who's Who."

According to "The Davidsonian" Dartmouth College has more faculty members listed in the 1928-29 "Who's Who in America" than any other educational institution of college rank and size in the country. Oberlin College is second in number of the names in the book, with Swarthmore, Smith, Amherst, and Pomona Colleges close behind. — Returns.

Hoop-rolling Not Only Popular At Wellesley.

Wellesley's hoop-rolling seems to be popular in other colleges too. As a grand finale of the Freshmen basketball at Dartmouth, a certain group of the class of '32 on the day of the first football game were attired in blue and white dresses and commanded to roll hoops through the town, and around the gridiron. The stunt was known as "hooping" it up. — Wellesley College News.

Athletic Notes

Sophomores and Juniors Win in Hockey Games.

The Junior first team defeated the Senior first team by the score of 11 to 1, in a Hockey game played last Friday afternoon, and the Sophomore first team beat the Freshman first team by the score of 14 to 4.

Short hits and good passes enabled the Juniors to carry the ball many times down to the end of the field, where it was shot to the goal and well rushed by the forwards.

Polly Swift was the high scorer in the Sophomore-Freshman game. Time and time again she took the ball down the field to make a goal with a hard, clean hit from the edge of the circle.

The Freshmen had better teamwork and passing in this game than in the last. Rumor has it that they have been practicing before breakfast.

Next Wednesday afternoon there will be two second team games. The Seniors will play the Sophomores and the Juniors will play the Freshmen.

which Edgar Allen Poe and Woodrow Wilson lived while attending the University.

Briar Patch to Conduct Operation of Movies.

The Briar Patch is sponsoring the movies this year in place of the Drive committee. Charlotte Coles has been appointed to operate the machine run last year by Sally Rebert, and Alice Blake will take care of the finances.

The list of proposed movies which has been sent by the Washington booking agency is composed of many of the most popular presentations and played by well-known actors. It is hoped that the machine will be in better working order this year as it has been repaired and inspected. With the drawback of the irregularity of the working of the machine done away with and the promise of newer and more worthwhile movies, the Briar Patch is hoping to bring the student body some enjoyable entertainment.

Talk Given in Convocation On New Voters League

Convocation on Thursday was held by Miss Rachel Gregg of Lynchburg. Miss Gregg had for her topic, the "Educational Value of the New Voters' League."

In a short speech, Miss Gregg set forth clearly the origin and development, purpose and accomplishments of this organization. Since the enfranchisement of women, the League of Women Voters has been a well known factor in politics and public life.

This organization has a very interesting program which includes work in Social Welfare, and in obtaining legislation for appropriation for educational purposes, and in educating the women voters. At present it is vitally concerned with the "Shepherd-Towner bill."

Miss Gregg is the local member in Lynchburg of the Extension Division of the University of Virginia.
